From the President

Hi Members

Back from my trip around the South and North Island of New Zealand was an amazing experience and not much time for Family History. I want to thank those of you who kept on top of things while Roger and I where away, it was great to come back and just pick up where we left off, what an amazing group of volunteers we have.

The mini training groups have been quite successful so far so we will continue with them for May June and July with new topics its than up to you the members to attend and make the next lot a success as well.

You will be advised of the topic and date in the coming weeks.

Don't forget to come and see us at the Wyong Golf Club on the 11 April where we have an ANZAC display and two great speakers, its only a gold coin donation.

Kerrie Metcalfe
President WFHG

REGISTRATION NOW OPEN

Port Macquarie and Districts Family History Society hosts of the 2015 Annual NSW & ACT Association of Family History Societies Inc. Annual Conference.

The Early Bird Registration forms are now available for you to download at <https://jennifermullino4.wix.com/2015-fhconference> You will be given several options either pay online or download the form. It is up to you how you proceed. If you are a WFHG Member you are entitled to receive the discounted price for the Conference of $120.00 but you will need to contact the secretary Kerry Clarke for the special code you need to use to secure the discount. If filling out the form I don't think you need it just add the name of your Society to the form. As long as the Society is a member of the Association you are eligible.

A reminder early birds are from 1 March to 3rd July 2015. You have plenty of time to register. After that it will cost you an extra $20.00. Credit Card payment is only acceptable if using the On-line registration choice. Full details are on the noticeboard at the Cottage for your information. Dates for the Conference are 11th – 13 September 2015

SALT LAKE CITY FAMILY HISTORY CENTRE

Hi everyone,

It's Easter weekend in Salt Lake City and this is the weather we are enjoying. I hear it has been drizzling a bit back home?

The family and I have had a great week of skiing and sightseeing. One of the sightseeing highlights for me was a visit to Antelope Island, a state owned reserve. No words (or my photos) can do it justice so I will just put three small pics in here and then move on to the family history centre :)

The girls getting up-close with the local bison

On the amazing Great Salt Lake

The original homestead was incredible. And you could touch everything! The old clothes, all the house hold and farm items.

I have managed to squeeze in a couple of trips to the family history centre - with one more trip planned for Monday morning before we fly East. What can I say about this place? It is huge? The photo to the left shows the size of the building from the outside - there are three stories dedicated to research above ground - and another two basement levels!

The two levels I was most interested in were below ground. B1 is Europe - I spent a few hours trawling through the 1855 census of Bad Oldesloe, Germany on Microfilm. Can I tell you how wonderful it is to find a record online - take a note of the film it is on - walk to the shelves, get the film down and check it out? Sigh. B2 is Austrazealand (the Americans don't seem to know or care that we aren't the same country) and the UK. There are about 50? computers on EVERY SINGLE LEVEL and research assistants everywhere. There was a German translator on hand for me when looking at the German records - amazing.

So - I was thinking - has the group ever done a trip over here? It's a beautiful city, easy to get around in. Also - I think we could teach them a thing or two!! We could run some Australian research workshops for them. (Really - you guys run rings around some of the research assistants over here!) (don't tell them I said that) Who's in?

LIBRARY UPDATES

FROM THE LIBRARY

Did you know.....that hiding in our very large CD collection are some real little gems. Records and lists containing often really obscure collections of data that may unravel your family mystery. This is the first of a series of articles to bring these to your attention. Most of them are easily searchable and once you are aware of what is available to you there may be a new path to follow.

“Notorious strumpets and dangerous girls”, CD301, is a compilation of all the available information on the 1675 women convicts transported to Van Diemen’s Land before 1830. The information covers from the time of their trial to the time they ceased to be of concern to the authorities in the colony. The information is clearly presented and well indexed.

Many of these ladies? had originally been transported to Sydney but further transgressions resulted in them being sent south.

Just as a taste here is one story:

Elizabeth Leonard may be your ancestor and you have found that she was convicted at Middlesex Gaol on 19 March 1785 and was transported here on the ‘Lady Penryn’, one of the first fleet ships, for feloniously assaulting Hannah, the wife of Samuel Boardman on 23rd September 1784, in a certain place called the privy of the New Prison, near the King’s highway, and putting her in fear and danger of her life, and feloniously taking from her person, and against her will, four shillings and sixpence in monies numbered, the property of the said Samuel. BUT did you know that she had aliases of Elizabeth Kellyhorn or Linnard or Leonell and was sent on to Van Diemen’s Land under one of these names!

She continued her wicked ways apparently and was transported from Sydney to the Derwent where she arrived aboard the ‘Sophia’ on 5th February 1805. Lieutenant-Governor Collins said to Governor King that as the women disembarked, he was concerned to see one who he well remembered i.e. Elizabeth Leonard alias Kelleyhorn, now a Veteran in Infamy and Nuisance at Sydney!

Have a look at this disk. You may not find your person but you will be highly entertained by the various strumpets’ stories.

Jean Macleay #359

New Library Resource

I am pleased to advise that the Group has now purchased a subscription to the popular magazine Who Do You Think You Are?

Our subscription will begin with the April 2015 edition and I'm sure it will prove to be popular with our members. While we are extremely grateful to those who have donated various copies of this magazine in the past, it was felt that the members would appreciate the opportunity of borrowing the latest copies as they are released.

Please remember to write up any magazines borrowed from the trolley in the hallway in the red "Loan Book" which can be found in the tray on the Library table. Up to 6 magazines are allowed to be borrowed at a time, but it would be appreciated if they are returned within 2 weeks as the latest editions are very popular with quite a number of members.

Glenise Clery #284 Librarian WFHG Inc.

Please read on for New Library Acquisitions and updates from our subscription sites.

Like the General Register Office which deals with birth, death and marriage certificates, the Probate Registry has now closed its London office and all orders must be placed online or by post.

At <https://probatesearch.service.gov.uk> you'll find three indexes to wills:

Wills & Probates 1996 onwards

Wills & Probates 1858-1996

Soldiers' Wills (British Armed Forces 1850-1986)

It's important to bear in mind that any record will be listed by date of probate, not date of death, so a person's will could be listed some years after their death if settlement of their estate was protracted. Once you've done a search a shopping cart is provided where you can lodge your application online and pay the £10 fee by credit card. Rather than posting the document to you an email link will be provided within ten working days and you then log into the 'My Wills' section of the site and save each order to your computer. Pgs 6-7 Group is collecting profiles of WW1 personnel who have a connection with Young. Info required via Email – youngfamilyhistory@bigpond.com Closing date: 31st March 2015.

IRISH Research Tip of the Week

As we head towards our national holiday, we think of what makes us Irish.

Central to that would be our love of storytelling. Family stories are a key component in the genealogist's arsenal. Alas, stories are a double edged sword for us genealogists trying to unravel fact from fiction. The Irish love of embellishment can really get in our way here. Take the following cautionary tale.... Recently discussing my great grandmother Eliza Morgan with a distant cousin, I was asked was there any truth in the family story that Eliza was the sister of the banker, JP Morgan? .... Answering their own question, the mischievous reply was that no, Eliza couldn't be, as JP Morgan was known to be an only child! There may be many other reasons why Eliza could not be sister to JP Morgan, but why let boring facts get in the way of a good story? So, as we go about celebrating our National Day, try separating your blarney from your facts!

RECENT UPDATES TO SUBSCRIPTION SITES AT THE COTTAGE

Gillingham Town Council

- Date added 18 March 2015
- Names Recorded 5550

The town of Gillingham is the northern-most town in the county of Dorset in England's South West region. Locals are keen to point out that the name is pronounced with a hard 'G' (as in "goal") and not a soft 'G' (as in "Germany") as is the case with Gillingham in Kent.

It has both a Roman and Saxon history and was recorded as Gelingeham in the Domesday Book.

Records on Deceased Online

There is a single cemetery in the town; Gillingham Cemetery located at Cemetery Road, Gillingham, Dorset SP8 4DL.

All burial records are available which date from 1861 through to 2011 and comprise:

- Scans of original registers
- Grave details indicating all those buried within each grave

The total number of individual burials recorded is nearly 5,600. For more information about Gillingham: en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gillingham,\_Dorset

Other records in the region on Deceased Online:

Dorset

- Blandford Forum Town Council, Dorset, 1856-2010

Source: Find My Past Friday Update 13th March 2015

We've released an exciting array of records this week as part of Findmypast Fridays, including fascinating records to search from Bethlem Royal Hospital between 1683 and 1932. This invaluable collection of nearly 250,00 records includes admission registers, staff books, governors' minutes and incredible patient casebooks containing the details of patient's behaviour, medical histories and physicians' notes. We've also made the Bethlem Hospital Patient Admission Registers and Casebooks 1683-1932 available to browse, as part of our partnership with Bethlem Museum of the Mind. These books offer precious insight into 250 years of treatment for the insane, and contain photographs of patients in the later versions.

New Irish records

We've also released millions of new Irish records, including the Ireland 1901 Census. The Ireland 1901 Census is one of only two surviving Irish Censuses held by the National Archives of Ireland. A new search facility, unique to Findmypast, enables searching by more than one household member, birth year and variants on the spelling of first and last names for the very first time. We've also added to our burgeoning Irish Newspaper Collection, with over 159,000 new searchable articles. These include ~~three new titles~~, the Cavan Observer, Meath People and Cavan and Westmeath Chronicle and the Ulster Gazette, as well as additions to existing titles such as the Dublin Evening Post. ## Scots at the start of two world wars

The latest additions to ScotlandsPeople online are the Scottish records of births in 1914, marriages in 1939 and deaths in 1964.

The 1914 births reveal how patriotism gripped parents of babies after Britain declared war on 4 August. The final few months of 1914 witnessed a new fashion for naming boys Kitchener after Lord Kitchener, Secretary of State for War. Field Marshal Lord Kitchener's face adorned the famous recruiting posters after the outbreak of war. He was responsible for increasing the British Army from six regular and fourteen divisions to seventy divisions by the creation of the 'New Armies' named after him.

Among the 123,394 births in 1914, we found 21 boys given the first or middle name of Kitchener, including John Kitchener Hay, born 13 December 1914. His mother Beatrice registered her son's birth, because her husband John was already in uniform as a lance sergeant in the Royal Army Medical Corps. A spirit dealer's assistant in civilian life, John Hay survived the First World War, resumed working as a barman and died in Dundee in 1926, aged 43.

Tim Ellis, Registrar General and Keeper of the Records of Scotland, said:

"We know that the latest additions to our online resources on ScotlandsPeople will be very useful for family history and other researchers, particularly as the registers for 1914 contain information about Scots at the start of the First World War."

In 1914 out of a total Scottish population of 4.75 million there were 123,394 births, a slight increase on previous years.

In 1939 there were 46,257 marriages, 7,541 more than in 1938, and the second highest recorded total to date.

In 1964 there were 61,039 deaths in Scotland.

Dear Secretary and Friends in the Australian Federation of Family History Organisations Inc

We hear that many people are asking how they can get a DVD of the series Convict Women and Orphan Girls, which is currently being broadcast on FOXEL in Australia & New Zealand. As the Irish filmmakers of this documentary series we would be very grateful if you could pass on this message/copy this email with the link www.convictwomenandorphangirls to your members and associates so they can contact us if they so wish.

The series tells the story of the over 25,000 women, more than half of whom were Irish, who were transported as convicts between 1787 and 1853, and of the over 4000 young orphan girls who were taken under the Earl Grey Scheme 1848-1850 from the Irish workhouses to the colonies where men outnumbered women by 9 to 1 in the outback.

We set out in making the series to rescue these women and girls from obscurity and restore their historical importance in building the modern Australian nation.

We are delighted that the series has been highly acclaimed, it is a testament to the women's stories, struggles, achievements and legacy. At the World Fest-Houston International Film Festival the series was awarded the Special Jury Remi Award, the highest award for creative excellence in its category. Richard O'Brien a former Irish Ambassador to Australia, and chair of the Advisory Committee on Irish Studies at the University of New South Wales has stated that:

'CONVICT WOMEN & ORPHAN GIRLS is a compelling portrayal - meticulously researched, vividly scripted and brilliantly enacted - of the dramatic story of the Orphan Girls and indeed of an entire generation of single, married and widowed women transported from Ireland who became the founding mothers of modern Australia. This magnificent series - which captures all the trauma of their banishment and the drama of shaping their lives on the other side of the world - is essential viewing for all who believe that history matters and that identity and heritage are to be truly cherished and celebrated.'

We very much appreciate your help in letting people know how they can contact us.

With warmest regards, And a big thank you
